

Education & training

Education programme supporting parents and families

All parents are provided with a training programme to facilitate their development as confident caregivers.

Continuing professional development (CPD)

All healthcare professionals have access to and undertake continuing professional development to deliver safe and effective healthcare.

Neonatal resuscitation training

Every healthcare professional is given access to and undertakes regular neonatal resuscitation training.

Evidence-based practice

Every healthcare professional caring for infants and their families delivers care based on the best available evidence, integrated with clinical expertise, available resources and the wishes of the family.

The role of simulation in education and training in neonatal care

All healthcare professionals develop and maintain competencies to provide safe and effective care through regular simulation-based learning.

Interprofessional education (IPE) and interprofessional practice (IPP)

Every healthcare professional has access to interprofessional education that enhances the delivery of practice in the care of infants and their families.

A common neonatal medical training curriculum

All doctors providing care to infants and their families receive training using a competency based curriculum and assessment framework.

A common neonatal nurse training curriculum

All nurses providing care to infants and their families have access to and undergo education and training using a competency based curriculum and assessment framework.

